DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. Claims 1-4 and 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hayes in view of Nathan further in view of Borgstahl.

As to claims 1-4 and 9-12, Hayes discloses remote control method of remote-controlling a data processing device (see col. 1, lines 8-17), comprising: a step performed by a server connected to the internet (see fig.1 item 3); a step, of storing control data by which the data processing device operates (see col. 11, lines 17-23); a step, performed by a remote device associated with the data processing device, of sending control data for operating the data processing device with the server via the Internet (see col. 9, lines 56-62); a step, performed by the data processing device, of referring to a caller's number communicated when the current call is accepted, and recognizing, based on the caller's number, (see col. 12, line 45-64); a step, performed by the data processing device, of download control data if the call is issued from the device and executing a process indicated by the downloaded control data (see col. 11, lines 1-29).

Hayes also discloses a remote control method wherein the caller has a home page maintained on the server and the step of registering is performed on the caller's home page, wherein the process executed by the data processing device includes controlling home appliances (see col. 10, lines 38-48). Hayes do not specifically disclose that the remote device is portable, or calling the data processing device via a telephone network. Borgstahl discloses a portable remote device and calling the data processing device via a telephone network (see col. 10, line 49 – col. 11, line 41). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine these teachings for a secure and convenient portable remote control system.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2683

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
